

PRESIDENT'S COMMENT

There is a stimulating line from Man Booker Prize winner, Yann Martel in the introduction to the Life of Pi (Canongate 2002) where he says "If we, citizens, do not support our artists, then we sacrifice our imagination on the altar of crude reality and we end up believing in nothing and having worthless dreams."

You will be encouraged that the Hamilton City Council has voted in favour of retaining the Artspost building (W.Times, 31 ;Aug)... we trust, for the sale, teaching, and exhibiting of Art – at least in the short term. We must, as WSA, continue to think ahead, however, dream of, advocate, and work for bigger and better art facilities and art spaces for our members and for the City as a whole. Your executive has called for a briefing from and closer communication between WSA, the WSA Trust, and the Council.. We will keep you updated on plans and progress. As a major tenant of the Artspost Building we do hope there are no more unpleasant surprises sprung upon us through the media.

It was also stimulating to see the dreams of the young artists who were finalists in the WSA National Youth Art Awards, and encouraging to have buyers and to have a record number of people visit the exhibition in Centre Place.

I thank those involved in the September Creativity Squared exhibition and for Bonham's for the use of their space.

The executive also thanks those who completed the questionnaire when renewing your membership. There are two common themes – (i) more exhibitions, and (ii) more weekend/short workshops. Your executive will work on these requests.

We remind you of the upcoming AGM and that we would like more volunteers for the Exhibition Committee to help make these exhibitions happen and spread the load around amongst our membership. More hands make light work. Help us share the load, avoid burn out of the willing, and strengthen our organization. Kia kaha

ART HISTORY LECTURES

"Demystifying the Arts"

A very good story teller with good stories to tell enralls an audience.

At the 15 September lecture in the Demystifying the Arts series organized by the University of Waikato in conjunction with WSA, Gavin Bishop proved this to be true. We had to find more chairs to take the capacity crowd that turned up – artists, mums, teachers, grannies, librarians, writers, students – all to be enchanted by Gavin's stories.

Gavin told us that he prefers to be known as a writer rather than an illustrator. Not only has he written more stories than he has illustrated but he reminded us that every picture tells a story. Gavin talked us through his autobiographical "Piano Rock" with its 1950's style illustrations and also showed us his latest works for a younger audience. He has a new book coming out – in time for Christmas we hope – for young boys, about a bulldozer/grader .. well, an earthmover!.

We were impressed to hear that not only are 50% of the profits from the sale of "Quaky Cat" (written with Diana Noonan) going to support earthquake victims in Christchurch but that 15,000 year 1 and 2 children in the area have been gifted a copy by the publishers, Scholastic. This is a wonderful donation and also a wonderful way to help children cope with the quake crisis.

The questions put by the Hamilton audience were a compliment to the renown of Gavin Bishop. People were obviously very well acquainted with his books and asked detailed questions about the colour of the hair of his characters, the people in the illustrations, - including the author himself, his grand-daughter, and, (also shared with the audience) his well-worn Teddy Bear. Gavin's books are, surely, part of Kiwiana.

There were questions about the techniques used in the artwork, Gavin's art materials work patterns, and his career path. It was also good to be able to tell him that our WSA Art School has run very successful classes on book illustration and some of our students were in attendance and thrilled to meet their favourite author and role model

DIANNE WITH GAVIN BISHOP

"Home is the giving and helping and sharing.

When a city is crumbling, then home is the caring.

Home is a lap where it's cosy and warm . . .

Home is where love keeps you safe from the storm."

There are two more lectures in the series and we are pleased that WSA has been involved in their organization.

MELIORS SIMMS AT ARTS POST

I wasn't there but I gather that Meliors had a great opening of her exhibition at Arts Post. She combined it with a poetry reading – as usual, hitting all the right notes. See Meliors' self analysis and commentary at her blog spot. (Ed)

CREATIVITY SQUARED EXHIBITION

The streets of Hamilton may have been closed on 16 September and black the most favoured colour, but this did not deter members and friends of WSA from attending the opening of the Creativity Squared exhibition in Victoria Street north. The opening was a pleasant social occasion and time for us to appreciate the work of our members and our WSA art school. Members displayed sculpture, drawing, painting, fabric art and prints. The total exhibition was colourful and revealed the breadth of talent in the membership. A big thank you to the Exhibition Committee - in particular this time to Carril Karr and Melany Sutherland - and an invitation for others to exhibit in the future and join the Exhibition Committee at our upcoming AGM. As ever we have to thank Eriko for going beyond the call of duty, and despite the All Blacks victorious score over Japan, that was a marvellous try by Eriko's countryman Onozawa!!!

EXTRACT FROM MESSAGE FROM THE HCC CEO

I am writing to let you know about some key Council meetings coming up as part of the next stage of our city's 10 Year Plan for 2012-22.

We are at the start of the process of reviewing all areas of Council's business to ensure we're in a stronger financial position for the future. In order to keep the city's debt under control a target of $14.5 million in operational savings has been set.

This requires Council to make some difficult decisions around which services should stop, which services and grants should be reduced, changes to fees and charges, reductions in project spending as well as considering new initiatives and ownership of Council owned assets.

Between now and the end of October Council will be scrutinising 22 areas covering all of our business. Decisions made by Councillors will feed into the draft 10-Year Plan which will be formally consulted on with the public in March/April next year, before being adopted from July 2012.

The public is welcome to attend all these meetings, with a 30 minute public forum at the start from 9.30am. There is also the opportunity to share views informally at our online forum. Meeting papers relating to the meetings can be found on our website. The programme of meetings and areas being scrutinised at each meeting are outlined below.
